DETROIT STREET CARS
MIRED IN SIX MONTHS

(Detroit Free Press)

Mayor Couzens asks the people of Detroit to amend the city charter so that the cost of paying between street car tracks may be transferred from the department of street railways to the department of public works account. In other words he wants the voters to relieve the D. S. R. system of the burden of about 75 per cent of the legitimate cost of track maintenance and shift it to the shoulders of the taxpayers, which means to the shoulders of all of us, because everybody is either directly or indirectly a taxpayer and bears his or her share of the public expense, unless he happens to have his property in the form of tax exempt securities, or lives in Windsor or one of the suburbs.

But this is not all. Mr. Couzens also asks the voters to authorize a new $5,000,000 bond issue to cover the cost of "extensions, additions and betterments to the municipal street railway system," and in explanation of the reason for this, he would have Peter Witt cars coming, some of which may have to be paid for with bond issues, and there is in addition to this a demand from many sections of the city for extensions, some of which should be begun next spring.

The mayor is asking the people of Detroit to do this, therefore the face of a solemn promise to the people of Detroit that it they would authorize the purchase of the D. S. R. lines, no part of the expense of acquisition and maintenance of the system would ever become a charge against the city, but would be taken out of the revenues, and in spite of an assurance that there would be no more bond issues.

So far as the paving is concerned, special emphasis was placed on the fact that the city charter says the money for payment must come from the revenues of the city, therefore the city would be perfectly secure from mauling in that direction.

The statements regarding money for new cars and extensions were equally positive. City Controller Stevens said in addressing the common council in behalf of the administration shortly before the election, "Our financial program is worked out so that we know we can buy new cars, repair the pavements and equipment and meet payments to the company, all out of revenues. Having a large surplus and bonds in a good financial basis, we will be able to do what we please."

The mayor himself, speaking over the radio on the evening of March 15, said, "The city has already built new lines into territories not heretofore served, and out of the earnings and moneys not yet expended will proceed to develop additions to the system as increased population requires, and as necessary for street car service might require."

Again on April 18, the morning after the election, Mr. Couzens declared, "We will operate on our income. As soon as we work out finances we will make announcements about new cars, extensions, and rehabilitation of the property."

There never was any hint from the administration that the people of Detroit could possibly be called upon to help the D. S. R. out of a financial hole. On the contrary, the mayor used to grow angry whenever anybody dared to suggest such a thing. The city was to have improved service, relief from crowding and street cleaning, all necessary extensions and plenty of new cars. The M. O. system was, to quote Mr. Couzens, "going to be financially a success, first, last and all the time."

Yet, after six months of operation, the public is being asked to go down into its pockets and to mortgage its homes, for indefinite millions in order to meet a major item of running expense.

It is being requested to authorize a considerable bond issue in order to meet payments for necessary cars and essential line extensions.

The service is the worst in the city's history, and is becoming more unsatisfactory all the time. Relief through rapid transit, without which rail extensions tend to clutter the streets, seems to be getting further and further away.

The only service resembling it, the jitney service, is about to be barred from the streets in order to force 22,000 more people a day into the already overcrowded street cars.

The situation is serious and the mayor would be wise if instead of persisting in a course that only tends to mire things more and more, he would stop short, go frankly before the people, confess his failures and difficulties and ask their tolerance and aid while he tries his best to organize and develop the M. O. lines in accordance with the provisions of the ordinance and his campaign promises.

TANLAC DEMAND IS GREATER THAN EVER IN HISTORY

Modern Plants Have Increased Capacity of 62,240 Bottles a Day But Makers Are Still Behind Orders—Medicine Publicly Endorsed by Best People Everywhere.

During the first seven months of this year 3,584,000 bottles of Tanlac have been sold and a new world record for a proprietary medicine is established.

Tanlac's wide-spread and ever-increasing popularity is the strongest possible proof of its unquestioned merit. No product, no matter how extensively advertised, could continue to establish world records for sales year after year if it did not produce actual and positive results.

Tanlac is composed of the most beneficial roots, herbs and barks known to medical science. The formula is ethical and conforms to all pure food and drug laws, and although Tanlac's superiority is abundantly supported by leading authorities it is the people themselves who have made Tanlac what it is. Millions upon millions have used it and have told other millions what it has done, while thousands of the best people in every community are given public statements of the great benefits they have received by taking it.

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists. —Advertisement.

Drudgery the Only Real Foundation of Power.

Nature Has Placed the Price Upon Essential to Those Who Would Reach the Heights.

You probably think that you are a drudge and that every other person has leisure, freedom from cares and great general happiness. If not, you are the exception. Everywhere is a certain amount of dissatisfaction at the daily task.

I say blessed be the man who is able to work. Blessed be the daily task! I know that there are times when we get tired, Arthur H. Staples writes in the Lewiston Journal. The back ache, the homeward way seems long, the hill to the house seems steep and hard; but I don't let you know give it up! You see the shop and the grind and the desk with its many papers to be handled and the typewriter grinning at you sardonically like a devil on four stilts! You would like to exchange it for leisure, travel, culture and elegance.

You know where you are going if you manfully stand up against these things and really analyze the thing that you call culture? Every fundamental of due mankind and wisdom comes through work. Call it drudgery if you will; it is disciplinary work that makes men, women and nations. You would like to be educated, skilled in art, a sculptor, a great physician, an eminent lawyer or a judge, a manager of a great business!

It takes time. Is it? Do you know how many hours of absolute drudgery goes into making culture as we call it? Do you know the years that it takes to make the great surgeon who saves your life and what drudgery there might be in his life if he did not call it joyous and blessed? Where did the intellect get its right to sit in judgment on the law and the facts? Did it come to him at birth? Did he buy it in a shop? Did he hire it from some one? No more! He will never be a lawyer, your life and what drudgery there might be in his life if he did not call it joyous and blessed? Where did the intellect get its right to sit in judgment on the law and the facts? Did it come to him at birth? Did he buy it in a shop? Did he hire it from some one? No more! BULLOCH TIMES AND STATESBORO NEWS

Entered as second-class matter March 23, 1905, at the postoffice at Statesboro, Ga., under the Act of Congress March 3, 1879.

AN EVEN SWAP.

Democracy in the First district seems to hold its strength, comparing one year with another. Two years ago, "Lawyer E. S. Fuller" of Savannah was campaigning for congress on the Republican ticket. Hon. Don Clark of the same city, was retaining a more or less private position, while participating in the Democratic primaries. Today "Attorney E. S. Fuller" is making public speeches with more or less forceful effect in behalf of Democracy, while Hon. Don Clark is stumping the district in behalf of his own candidacy for election to congress as a Republican.

Thus it appears that Democracy has even swapped places, as it were, holding her average strength.

All of which reminds us of the point that we have made before: Democracy in the First district and in Georgia is a more or less doubtful element. When our party nominations are held, we lay down the law to voters of every political shade—Republican, Socialist, or what-not. They come in and help elect our nominees and then turn their backs upon the party when the general election comes around and vote against the party candidates. It was an evil day for the voters of Georgia when, in 1906, Hon. Hoke Smith, a candidate for governor, gained control of the party management and let down the bars to voters of every party to walk in and take control. He won the election that year, but he has been the victim of his own folly ever since. Every time he has been defeated for office, it was by the very element he had permitted to walk in and take control. Since then there has been no Democratic party in Georgia. Those who called themselves Democrats, aspiring for office have found it necessary to truckle to the party's enemies or run the risk of defeat. In the late race for United States senator there was not a man who dared declare himself a Democrat of true faith. Not one dared to hold up his head and announce for the things for which the national Democratic party stands committed.

The Democratic party of Georgia will not be able to command her respect till she rises herself on the factions and aims which have been permitted to slip in when they wished and out when they were not satisfied. Those who are permitted to participate in Democratic affairs ought to be bound by something more than mere personal choice—they ought to be compelled to either get in or get out of the party under some sort of respectable control which the party shall establish for its own protection.

WHAT IS YOUR MONEY WORTH? Money as a purchasing agent, means 100 cents to a dollar. But the greater spending value of money is in what it will buy judiciously. Money value and economy are often mistaken for the same thing. A wooden house costs about two-thirds of the price of a brick one, but it is economy to put more money in the more substantial building.

So it is with the purchase of the commodities of every day use. A shoe with a hole in it will destroy more hose than a new pair or a half sale will cost. So it is an economy to spend money for the new shoes.

Your local merchant carries two or three grades of almost every staple article and the close observer can easily see that the best value for your money lies not in price but in service.

The practice of sending money away from home for articles to save what may be seen a substantial reduction from the local merchant's price is often a waste of money. Your local merchant offers you a choice of several grades and almost inevitably stands ready to adjust any shortcomings the articles may later be found to have. His success depends not upon your first purchase but upon your future patronage. The local merchant uses his long established business as an asset. The mail order house does not dare assert their past performance, for some often change their names every year. Some people though, are like the fish that tries every hook on the stream.

If all the members employed in the building trades in this section sent their money off for goods that they could buy at home, how long would they be able to find remunerative employment?

By patronizing local merchants and

VETERAN STRIKES LUCK AT ASHEVILLE REUNION

Mr. Editor: I had thought if I ever did go to another reunion and strike a streak of luck like I did at Richmond and Petersburg, when I came back I wouldn't say anything about it, for I don't want some of the old boys to know I lost they might stick out their lips or turn up their noses or look cross-eyed at me and wonder how I could have such good times.

Well, I went to Asheville, N. C., on a visit and struck it right for the state reunion. I cannot tell how good a time I had. A veteran was known by his badge, and street car riders and movies were free.

In time of the war the soldiers of North Carolina got the name of Tar heels, and that is a good name and they love it. Their badge is a little foot one or two inches long and the heel is smeared with tar, which is as good as to say, "We will stick to you as good as glue." They have got badges, or ushers to wait on the veterans, and I like them a heap better than I do the Boy Scouts. They wear a badge so you can know them. I think they range in age from 12 to 16 or 18 years. They help you up and down the steps, carry you lemons and ice cream and such on you like you were a king. Statesboro wants the reunion next year. Our sponsor has the right to select her make of honor and as many pages as she will need, four, six, or eight. I hope she will drill and train them better. Everybody will fall in love with them.

Well, I heard some one saying, "What is the U. D. C. Where did they come from and what good are they?" I know but little, but I wish everybody knew as much as I know about the U. D. C. They came from Adam's race. I know they are the best organization that has ever been on God's green earth; they are the best friends the Confederate soldier has ever had. They let their light shine so that the world can see and know all their acts and deeds, and may God bless each and every one of them in our earnest wish.

At the right of the door as you went in the building where the Asheville reunion was held, the U. D. C. had a hospital room with five or six rockers and ten cots. You could sit down and rest or lie down and rest. One of the old vets got overheated and fell on the floor. They had him carried into the room and laid on a cot. One lady sponsor got a glass of water and bathed his face, while one stood and fanned him and the third stood ready to lend a helping hand. I stood and looked at them and knew that the gentle stroke of the hand, the consoling word from the one who understood him, and the gentle smile from the other, did the old vet more good than all the physicians could do him. Isn't human nature a curious thing?

I had to lie over in Augusta as I came back and I heard three men talking about taxes. One said, "What was your tax last year?" "Sixty," the other answered. "Well, it won't be that much this year; the governor killed the pension bill." Say $1.00 poll tax and 25 cents county tax. Not one-hundredth part of one cent of that 25 cents would have gone to the pension fund. Oh, Lord, let us be thankful for what we are about to receive.

LEGAL BATTLE AS TO LIQUOR ON SHIPS

FOREIGN STEAMSHIP COMPANIES WOULD RESTRAIN ENFORCEMENT OF RULING. New York, Oct. 16.—The legal battle to determine the right of foreign-owned ships to enter ports in the United States with liquor aboard was opened tonight with the issuing of United States District Attorney Hayward, of a reply to the bills in equity brought by five foreign steamship companies to restrain enforcement of the recent ruling preventing the carrying of liquor on vessels entering American ports.

The reply makes, in the main, four contentions: That the District Court, before which the cases are to be heard tomorrow, has no jurisdiction in the matter; that suits are really against the United States Government; that they do not show that the government has consented to be sued, and that they do not disclose any basis for an action in equity.

Upon these grounds the defense of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Henry C. Stuart, acting collector of customs for the port of New York, who Ralph A. Day, federal prohibition director for the state of New York, who are made defendants in the suits brought by the companies, will be built in court tomorrow.

Mr. Hayward, who is acting for Secretary Mellon, in the reply, announces specifically the ground upon which the requests for injunctions are based.

As to the difficulty which the foreign steamship companies state they would suffer by reason of laws compelling them to furnish wines to members of crews, District Attorney Hayward says the payment of higher wages would recompense crews for the lack of such stimulants.

Regarding the loss of the profit made by the foreign ships in the sale of liquor, Mr. Hayward claims that this loss is the only one which the companies will suffer under a strict adherence to the new ruling.

To the charge of the complaining steamship companies that the Attorney General's ruling is a misinterpretation of the Volstead act, the reply states:

"If the complainants are correct in their construction of the national prohibition act, the implication involved are exceedingly serious and the claim of the complainants, if allowed, would carry with it as a necessary corollary, the right of any ship to transport within the territorial waters of the United States."

Answering the plea of the carriers to permit the possession on board ships of liquors, which would be kept under lock and key, during "in port" periods, the defendants claimed that such permission would make the enforcement of prohibition against the importation of liquors, "already difficult," practically impossible.

The enforcement of the ruling of the Attorney General as to foreign ships is necessary to the protection of American-owned tonnage, the reply said, holding "on information and belief" that the sale of "bootlegging" quarts on the high seas by vessels carrying the American flag caused with the issuance of the Attorney General's ruling, while sale of liquor on other vessels has continued.

NOTICE.

Just a few lines to my customers and friends: I want to state right here that we are doing all we can at all times to give the best service we can unless we have the help of our customers in cleaning and seeing out bottles each night. It makes very hard on us, as it is expensive to have so much money invested in bottles, and there is no one that realizes the expense of any business, and they experience the right time of getting money, our expenses are getting higher, as bottles and caps have advanced, caps 50 per cent, bottles 20 per cent and gasoline about 20 per cent, although we are retelling milk every day, rain or shine, at the same prices as before the World War.

Now, there is no business that can continue to run always losing money. Hoping you will all consider what we have said and help us in our expense as it will benefit each of us.

Thanking you for your past patronage and soliciting more in the future. Yours truly,

AKINS DAIRY. (24nov32)

NOTICE TO FARMERS.

The Statesboro Provision Co. will commence curing meat on Monday, October 16, 1932.

Owing to the fact that hog feed is as high as corn, we believe it would be economy to slaughter hogs as soon as they are fat, thereby saving feed. Although fuel is higher than last season, we will, for the present, keep the price the same as last year, viz: 2 1/2 cents for dry salt cured and 3 1/2 cents for smoked cured per pound, payable either in cash or meat at market price. We will smoke with green hickory wood and will turn out as high class product as we did last season. Kill in the morning and bring in the same afternoon to prevent souring. Remember that nicely trimmed meat always brings a better price. Cutting off hams and shoulders just above the knee makes a better package and will bring more money.
